

Opportunities for

Florida State Association of PARLIAMENTARIANS

Today's youth represent the Next Chapter of Keepers of the Democratic Process. They are beginning the work of building new relationships – drawing members of NAP together within and across cities, states, and countries. Many of the youth organizations host their regular state and national competitions in Orlando!

How can FSAP members contribute to the success of these middle school and high school students interested in learning Robert's Rules of Order?

- Volunteer to serve as a judge at local district competitions
- Volunteer to assist as an advisor or consultant
- Volunteer as a coach for parliamentary teams

Working with students will give NAP members experience in using the terms and demonstrating different situations. Judging parliamentary competitions provides an opportunity to review the rules and procedures for making motions, handling motions, and conducting business meetings.

Teams winning at the local district level advance to the state level competitions which are usually held in Orlando, then advance to national competitions held in other states, or in Orlando. The rules and procedure for each competition may be different although Robert's Rules remain the same.

Many student organizations abandoned virtual competitions and returned to hosting live competitions at local districts (November – January) with state competitions in Orlando (January – May). Instructions, rules, and scoring sheets are emailed to judges prior to the competition. Numerous volunteers are available to assist during the day with printed copies and to assist with the electronic scoring. Not every group has competitions every year.

A special THANKS to the FSAP members who served as an advisor, coach, or judged at district levels, and to the following FSAP members who drove more than 1,700 miles to and from Orlando to judge at the state competitions:

Wanda Sims, Sam King, Julie Palm, Karen Price, Ted Allman, Barbara Proctor, Barbara Davis, and Pat Patterson

Igniting a passion for parliamentary procedure in young people is NAP's mission.
